

Every citizen in a town should be interested in its prosperity. One of the best ways to help a town, is to speak well of it. It is true patriotism to stand by your own town, and interests that affect the town should affect every citizen.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

The High School leaves the High School, but, "Oh! you purple and white."

The ranks of the C. H. S. are torn by the question of "Who's to be champion next time?"

Resolved that the whole High School will accompany the debaters next time, and save them for Claresholm.

Why are the High School students who returned from High River so enthusiastic about the solemn to that place? Even the chaplains report a most enjoyable time. Matters must be investigated.

We understand that High River supports a slot machine, and that one of Claresholm's most respected citizens went so far as to fling a nickel at Chances who only threw back a little gum. That's "Home Patrons" for you!

The staff raise an objection, to the cheering of gum by the High School students. Are they not aware of the fact that the school is in the midst of the debate last Friday? If we abolish the gum we cannot but expect that the declamatory powers of the Claresholm High School will be deteriorated.

The first debate of the Provincial High School debating League was held Friday. The subject for last week was resolved that "Canada should adopt the use of simplified spelling." In the contest between Claresholm and High River, at the latter place Miss Irene Walker and Mr. Simpson took the affirmative while Miss Hewitt and Chas. Smith defended the negative. Miss Ellen Silberg went as champion to Miss Walker. After the debate was over, the debaters were entertained at the home of Miss M. Carr, principal of the High River High School.

A VOICE FROM P.E.I.

Big Changes Predicted in Fiscal Policy of Warring Nations

It is not often that we hear from our sister Province by the sea, Prince Edward Island, on the questions of trade and fiscal policies. When the whole of Canada, particularly the Western provinces, was greatly wrought up over the changes proposed in 1911, we do not remember having seen many references to the attitude of the papers of the people of the "Province by the Sea," on the questions at issue.

Apparently the editor of the Charlottetown "Guardian," from whom we quote below, is a close student of economic history, and while his views may not find favor in the West, it will be interesting to our readers to know how the minds of some of their fellow citizens by the sea are working with respect to trade questions.

The following article from the Charlottetown "Guardian" of a few weeks ago, indicates the views of a large school of economists.

"The old Manchester school of politicians was all powerful in its day. It was the outcome of the rise of the middle classes to political power in Britain, in England more particularly. Up till 1830 the middle classes in England had practically no say in the government of the country. Then they made their voices heard and influence felt. The middle classes in Britain represented, for the most part, the middlemen in business, the men who make their living by purchasing the products of the factory and reselling them to the retail shopkeepers. So long as the markets of the country are protected the middleman is restricted to a legitimate percentage of profit. Labor demands a fair wage and the consumer will not pay more than he can afford, and all events buy more than he can afford, and so prices are kept reasonably moderate, commensurate with the just remuneration of labor. The Manchester school of politicians set themselves the task of cutting the price of labor, and the only way they could do so successfully was to bring in the products of foreign labor, and this was done through unrestricted importations into Great Britain of the surplus products of foreign manufacturing factories. The middlemen in Great Britain have prospered and waxed mighty as the result of this policy. All the millionaires nearly of the last fifty years have been middlemen who bought in the cheapest market and sold in the dearest. Many of the British industries have gone to the wall because of the encouragement of cheap foreign-made goods, and Germany enjoyed through protecting her own workmen's labor while underselling the labor of the British workmen. One of the outcomes of the war will be to bring the British workman into his own, to do away, practically for ever, with unrestricted free trade, and to substitute therefor fair trade on a basis of tariff reform. This is assured. Cobdenism is in its death bed and will not survive the war. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain was the prophet of the new school of tariff reform, and his prediction will as surely come true as his prediction of the action of the British Dominions in the event of a great war such as the present."

It is difficult to see from this distance how the Charlottetown editor can find support for his arguments. The war has shattered the records of many prophets, and it is a bold man today who would make any sweeping predictions about fiscal or other political questions now. It is safe to say, however, that the fiscal policy of Great Britain will be the cause of much searching of mind during the years following the war, and there is no doubt that revenue necessities will be such that the old policy of free trade will have to be departed from in many respects.

"MADE-IN-CANADA" AND THE PRESS

Annual Conclave of Newspapermen Discuss "Made-In-Canada" Campaign

At the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association, held in Toronto, considerable discussion took place regarding the "Made-In-Canada" idea, and the big campaign which was launched a year ago. The newspaper proprietors and editors present were almost unanimously in favor of the "Made-In-Canada" idea. "Industrial Canada," the official organ of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, expresses its appreciation of the assistance rendered by the members of the Canadian Press Association. It says:

"The members of the Canadian Press Association deserve and have received the thanks of Canadian manufacturers for the wholehearted and very effective support which they gave and are still giving to the 'Made-In-Canada' policy."

"When the newspapers, with splendid unanimity, took up the 'Made-In-Canada' cry, supported it vigorously and put it into practice, they performed a distinct national service and in addition benefited themselves, and according to the degree which they continue their support, the welfare of the country and their own interest be assured."

"After the war the United States will probably be the greatest country in the world. That means that Canada will have along the 4,000 miles of boundary a number of the most industrial centres which will have immense supplies of money, huge armies of labor and great numbers of skilled employees. At the present time the scientific and technical experts of the United States are using their utmost ingenuity to perfect devices and processes which they hope will make their country the leading manufacturing nation upon the world, and it is with their powerful neighbor that we must compete. In the coming industrial battle Canadian manufacturers will have to fight desperately; they will be handicapped by lack of capital and in almost every way they will be placed at a disadvantage, who manufacturing firms of the United States. Consequently, it is not of supreme importance that the 'Made-In-Canada' campaign should be supported vigorously."

In the last nine months the value of the goods imported into Canada for consumption was $303,000,000. For a similar period of the preceding year, the value of goods imported into Canada for consumption was $398,000,000. Consequently, since the "Made-In-Canada" campaign was started, our purchases abroad have diminished by $95,000,000 and it is reasonable to claim that the "Made-In-Canada" campaign is responsible for at least a part of this decrease.

While it is too early to make bold statements regarding the ultimate effect of the war on the fiscal policies of Great Britain, the Budget recently brought down in the British House of Commons may well cause concern in the minds of those who have always been ardent defenders of the policy of free trade.
